Course Description

Exploration of the relevance of trauma to the study of the Bible and of the Bible for a traumatized world through select readings in the Bible and trauma theory.

Any 2 of BI-101, BI-102, BI-171, BI-172 are prerequisite.

(Note: Due to the SARS-CoV-2 pandemic, all class sessions will be conducted online using a variety of tools, including synchronous Zoom sessions during the scheduled class time and asynchronous online discussions. Please see the technical requirements below.)

Objectives

1. To examine closely and to appreciate select biblical texts through the lens of trauma.
   a. To demonstrate familiarity with the content and shape of select biblical texts.
   b. To demonstrate understanding of the trauma studies and its relevance for the composition, transmission, and reception of biblical traditions.
2. To engage critically and practically trauma studies for the study of biblical traditions and the Bible for trauma studies.
   a. To engage and evaluate various trauma informed approaches to the interpretation of the Bible.
   b. To discover and communicate how the Bible has and can continue to inform Christian faith and practice, especially as it relates to trauma.
Requirements

1. Attendance and Participation (15%): Regular preparation of course materials as reflected in class attendance and participation in discussion.

2. Class Session and Short Paper (30%):
   - A class session (10–15 minutes) on a topic or passage led by students. The topic or passage must be approved by the instructor. Students are encouraged to consider presenting on specific themes or a well-defined passage. Group projects are welcome. Sign-up for session dates will occur week 2.
   - A short paper on the topic or passage (4–6 pages). Due one week after the class session.

3. Exegetical Paper (40%): An exegetical paper (10–12 pages) on a passage and topic based on research and the student’s interpretative work.
   - The paper itself should be an organic whole that presents a critical argument. This means that an issue must be precisely identified, the data accurately surveyed, the different positions fairly and dispassionately set forth, and the preferred interpretation rationally defended.
   - Submit an electronic copy on Blackboard on or before the due date.
   - Due April 26, 2021 (for graduating students) or May 3, 2021 (for all others).

4. Communication Event (15%): A presentation (10–15 minutes) based on the exegetical paper using creative means to communicate to a non-academic audience. The use of the arts (literary, musical, visual, etc.) is encouraged. Group projects are welcome. Please provide a one-paragraph description of the event introducing the topic and connection to the course. On April 26 or May 3, 2021.

5. Final course grade will be assigned according to the following scale: A = 93–100; A- = 90–92; B+ = 87–89; B = 83–86; B- = 80–82; C+ = 77–79; C = 73–76; C- = 70–72; F = 0–69

3. Computer: The use of computers and other devices during class is prohibited except for in-class related activities. Violations will be marked as an unexcused absence.

4. Assignments: Written assignments are due at 11:59 PM on the due date. Upload an electronic copy of the paper on the class Blackboard site, preferably as a Word file. A 3% deduction will be applied for every weekday that the paper is late. Extensions are granted only because of emergencies and must be requested in writing in advance of the due date.

5. Writing: Students are encouraged to avail themselves of the services of the Writing Center. For more information, contact Rev. Raedorah C. Stewart, the Director of the Writing Center (tel: 202-885-8671; email: writingcenter@wesleyseminary.edu).

6. Communication: The best way to contact the instructor is by email at pcho@wesleyseminary.edu. If the instructor does not respond within one business day, you may send him another email.

Institutional Policies

1. Accommodations: Once admitted to Wesley, students needing accommodations must communicate with the Associate Dean for Community Life. Students will submit to the Office of Community Life relevant, current documentation from a qualified professional, which will be evaluated by a consultant with a degree in special education. All accommodations for classes are made by the Office of Community life on behalf of the student. Please see our page on Disability Accommodations for more information.

2. Academic Integrity: The rules governing academic integrity at the Seminary (see Wesley Theological Seminary Catalog 2020-2021, pp. 129-30) will be strictly observed. Academic dishonesty (e.g., cheating on exams, plagiarism) will not be tolerated under any circumstance and will result in substantial penalties, including the possibility of academic dismissal. The Faculty regards the following as forms of academic dishonesty: copying from another’s paper; giving or receiving unauthorized assistance to or from another student during an examination; using unauthorized material during an examination; and borrowing and presenting as one’s own (i.e., without proper attribution) the composition or ideas of another.

3. Communication: The Seminary considers your Wesley email account an official means of communicating with students. Blackboard accounts are also linked to your Wesley email. Please check your Wesley account regularly or have it forwarded to another account.

4. Respectful Language: The Seminary expects course discussion and written work to employ language that respects the equal dignity and worth of all human beings. In particular, linguistic sexism and racism are to be avoided.

5. SafeAssign: You may be asked to submit one or more of your writing assignments to Blackboard’s SafeAssign plagiarism prevention service. Assignment content will be checked against Internet sources, academic journal articles, and the papers of other Wesley Theological Seminary students for common or borrowed content. SafeAssign generates a report that highlights any potentially unoriginal text in the submitted paper. The report may be submitted directly to the instructor or the instructor may elect to have students submit initial drafts through SafeAssign so that you will receive the report allowing the opportunity to adjust and ensure that all source material has been properly cited.
